FRONT ALONE ON IMMIGRATION!

PLAYING THE IMMIGRATION CARD: Tebbit used the knave when he should have laid the ace!

Tory Revolt Ends in Tears

IT ALL ENDED in tears, just as we all knew that it would do. The last ditch stand of the rump of pro-British Tory MPs petered out to nothing as Parliament voted to let 250,000 Hong Kong Chinese flood into Britain.

Norman Tebbit's backbench revolt caved in as more than half of his original rebels backed down under pressure from Tory Whips. His half-cocked effort to stem the tide of coloured immigration into Britain was treated by Parliament with the contempt it probably deserved.

Tebbit never once mentioned RACE in his arguments. He talked of numbers, assimilation, culture, differences, cricket(?), religion, integration and every other cop-out he could think of. He just couldn't bring himself to say "These people are unwelcome here because they are of a different RACE, and wherever and whenever races are mixed there is conflict and misery without exception".

The demise of the Tory Party as an anti-immigration Party was fitting because it came in a week when figures were released that broke all records for coloured immigration into Britain.

What a idiot Tebbit made of himself saying the Tory Party mustn't break it's election pledges on immigration. Isn't 117,110 Asians breaking an election promise!

So, once again, the National Front stands alone as the Party against coloured immigration. Once again our tiny party is all that stands in the way of the total annihilation of the British RACE British culture and the British way of life.

In just over eighty years time we will be a minority in our own country. It is impossible to believe that is really what the British people want.

BR Takes Strain Of Dishonest V.I.P.s

HAVE YOU seen the British Rail Campaign Posters warning of the consequences if you try to dodge paying your fares?

The consequences described may well apply to the ordinary British people but if you are a VIP then you have nothing to worry about. BR have just instituted special procedures for fare-dodging MPs, people with a title, Judges and media representatives

Michael Park, Head of British Rail's Customer Services Dept has told all BR Area Managers in a letter headed 'UNPAID TICKET IRREGULARITY - FOLLOW-UP PROCEDURE' that:

"A recent incident involving a public figure has highlighted the need to restate the procedure to be adopted when dealing with cases of a potentially sensitive nature".

"The high profile nature of our business requires that certain cases be handled carefully and excluded from routine follow-up procedure".

What that means is that there is one law for public figures and people of influence and another law for ordinary British folk.

The letter goes on

"All such cases must be taken up - and progressed to finality - by your Area Retail Manager (or equivalent). These would include customers who are MPs, Peers of the Realm, members of the judiciary, journalists and other media reprentatives".

Translated that means, 'Normal fare-dodgers are dealt with by clerks - if you're a big wig with a bit of clout you get the Retail Manager!'.

And there's more . .

"Under no circumstances should this type of case be included in any follow-up arrangements you may have with a third party e.g. Credit Protection Association or MONIT."

That's the bombshell - your run of the mill dishonest traveller gets his case put on the Credit Protection Register - your Rt Hon., Sir and her Ladyship, Judge and plain old investigative journalist get off scot free.

Lion's Share of the Egg Market

AFTER 22 years in retirement the little red lion is back on British eggs letting shoppers know which eggs to buy.

Individual eggs will not be stamped but the boxes they come in will. As well as the lion they will have the word British in bold blue letters.

The move by the British Egg Industry Council is to give customers assurance after the salmonella scares as well as making sure that foreign eggs can be identified by shoppers and left well alone.

Asian Towns, Berks!

BERKSHIRE COUNCIL believe that in ten years time the towns of Slough, Reading and Maidenhead will be predominantly Asian.

What are they doing about it? - Stopping any further Asian settlement and sterilising the Asian male population. No, not quite.

They have produced a report 'Towards 2000' which states that all local authorities and schools should adopt policies which take into account the changing ethnic make up of the population.

Blackgeld! Britain Pays Up Again!

ETHNIC MINORITIES in Britain have been given an extra £21 million of taxpayers money to help establish themselves in our country.

Ethnic groups will now receive an amazing £110 million this year courtesy of the British taxpayer.

600 Welsh Miners out of Work

BLAENANT COLLIERY in South Wales closed this month with the loss of 600 jobs.

There is plenty of coal still to be mined there but British Coal have closed the pit because due to difficult mining conditions it cannot reach its 15,000 tonnes a week target.

So once again the miners of Wales have been sacrificed in the interests of quick profits. A community has been destroyed because of greed.

Today there are 3,100 miners in Wales, once there were 250,000.

Japs Swallow Apricot

APRICOT COMPUTERS, one of Britain's last surviving personal computer firms has been bought up by the Japs.

Mitsubishi Electric paid £39 million for the privilege of hammering the final nail in the British Computer Industry.

Police Nail Media Lies

CHESHIRE POLICE HAVE exposed a vicious attempt to smear the National Front by The Northern Echo a newspaper which claims to be 'The Great Daily of the North'.

After nearly six month's investigation Cheshire Police have informed the National Front that a front page report in the Northern Echo on Monday 13th November 1989 linking the National Front with soccer violence was a tissue of lies from start to finish.

Superintendent A.K. Linford of Cheshire Police's Macclesfield Division was asked by NF Deputy Chairman, Martin Wingfield, to look into claims that "members of the National Front" were involved in violence at a football match between Macclesfield and Darlington on Saturday 11th November as claimed by the Northern Echo.

After trying for three months to get the facts from the paper, Superintendent Linford was finally able to establish that the report was a pack of lies and he was "not in a position as to say why The Northern Echo produced the article."

Of course we can tell Superintendent Linford why they printed the article. It was to smear the National Front in an area where British people are showing interest in the policies of the Party.

The matter is now in the hands of the NF's Media Monitoring Unit.

SMEARMONGERING: For 23 years the Press have been telling lies about the National Front. Now, for the first time, we are fighting back!

The Lies Of The Northern Echo

LIE ONE: The Northern Echo claimed the Police had said "From literature and banners they had on them, it was obvious they were members of the National Front".

■ Superintendent Linford said that no National Front literature or banners were seen or recovered.

LIE TWO: The Northern Echo reported that John Bennett was the Officer in Charge of the Police Operation.

■ Superintendent Linford said that Inspector Bennett was not in charge and never had been.

LIE THREE: The Northern Echo claimed 30 NF members from Darlington were arrested.

■ The Superintendent said that there were 9 arrests at the match. Eight were from Darlington, none of them had anything on them to indicate they were members of the NF

LIE FOUR: The Northern Echo claimed that many troublemakers were ejected from the ground during the game.

■ Superintendent Linford said that no one was ejected from the ground.

LIE FIVE: The Northern Echo claimed that all the licensed premises in the town were closed by Police.

■ Superintendent Linford said this was completely untrue.

British Horses Back on the Menu!

THE SINGLE European Market in 1992 may be a good thing for yuppies and financiers, but among the vastly greater number for whom it will be a thoroughly bad thing will be Britain's horses.

For 1992 will remove protective laws which curb the numbers of our horses sent to the Continent to be slaughtered and eaten to satisfy disgusting foreign appetites.

After a public outcry that British horses, including childrens' ponies, were ending up on Continental dinner tables, the 1981 Animal Health Act was passed. This made the trade in British horseflesh largely uneconomic, and has cut the number of our horses exported to be eated by Continentals to only 200 a year.

As Miss Jane Gale of the International League for the Protection of Horses said recently, "If the Economic Community sweeps aside these provisions in 1992, the trade will mushroom to thousands of horses being transported from Dartmoor, Exmoor, the New Forest and elsewhere. The Economic Community is insisting on getting rid of provisions in the 1981 Act, particularly the clause that horses cannot be sold for export for meat for less than £700 for a large horse".

To the Government, the welfare of these noble and intelligent beasts counts for nothing. But to the National Front, British horses deserve better than to be sacrificed to the greed of financiers and the unpleasant appetites of foreigners to whom they have shackled us in the EEC.

Exporting horses for foreigners' food should be strictly forbidden, and if that miffs the Brussels bureaucrats - tough!

Killing off the Village

TORY POLICY has forced the village shop in Norton St Philip, Somerset to close after 62 years of supplying local residents with sweets, tobacco and newspapers.

Owner Mrs Beatrice Curtain says the combination of Poll Tax and Uniform Business rate has put her out of business.

Small shops provide a valuable service to those without cars and the elderly. Many small village shops operate a delivery service keeping small rural communities together.

Not only are the Tories killing off the small village shops with their policies - they are killing off the village communities too!

REMEMBERING: An old soldier by the plaque in Quay Street.

CAMPAIGN TO SAVE A WAR MEMORIAL

MANCHESTER COUNCIL, which doles out money like confetti to every black and queer group under the sun is refusing to pay for the preservation of a War memorial commemorating the fallen of two World Wars.

The memorial set in an outer wall of the old Manchester County Court building in Quay Street has been rotted by Manchester rain for nearly 70 years and the gold letters carrying the names of 100 dead and wounded soldiers from St John's Ward of the city are now faded.

The old court building has now been sold and local old soldiers believe that the plaque will be removed.

The memorial was erected in 1921 and veterans hope that by registering it with the Royal British Legion's National Inventory of War Memorials they will be able to ensure its protection.

Mandela Admits Torture Terror

NELSON MANDELA has admitted that his African National Congress has tortured dissident members of its own organisation.

Speaking on April 14th, as he was setting off for his Wembley Concert extravaganza, the convicted terrorist and self-confessed Communist said that ANC dissidents who alleged they had been tortured by his organisation were indeed telling the truth: "Unfortunately it is true that some of these people who were complaining were in fact tortured", Mandela told an impromptu airport press conference.

TORTURE? Of course I's torture them!

This admission that the ANC had stolen a march on most Black African regimes and started torturing its political opponents even before it had come to power and set up a one-party state did not seem to deter Mandela's fans at Wembley. The likes of 'Dezo and the Bananabeats' still capered about the stage.

Whilst Mandela's supposed support for a "non-racial South Africa" (in which everyone will be the same shade of coffee-brown, presumably) did not stop him enjoying 'Microdisney's' latest hit We Hate You White South African Bastards.

In April STEVE BRADY visited Russia on a fact finding mission for the National Front. His report warns of the new dangers facing the Russian people.

Russians Face Junk Revolution

AT THE moment, the streets of Russian cities are clean and safe. The people on them are White, their bodies unrotted by junk food, their minds unrotted by junk culture.

The Moscow Metro underground stations are works of art, where heroes of Russia's - not just Communism's - past look down from their flittering mosaic portraits on spacious trains running on time through spacious marble halls.

In Leningrad's Hermitage Museum, ordinary Russians still value an afternoon appreciating the glories of European art and culture.

At night at the heart of the splendid War Memorial in Leningrad's Victory Square a ring of eternal flames lights the flowers laid at the feet of the Statue of the Fallen. Flowers laid by every bride, a pledge to those who gave their lives that the nation, the Motherland, might live from those who will bring forth new life that the nation shall indeed live on in a new generation.

In Russian schools Russian children are still taught to honour Russia's history and heroes. A history made fighting mostly in her thousand -year race war with the Asiatic hordes eastward, a race war that kept Europe White and free.

"Multicultural education" and racemixing brainwashing has not reached Russia - yet.

If Russia sinks from Communism into Capitalism, all this will change. Instead of serving the common good, and a dream, however fatally flawed, of a better society, Russians will learn to serve only their own selfish ends.

All art, all music, all culture will be debased to what makes the quickest buck for its promoters. Russia, currently a nation of individuals of character, will be turned into the soul-dead brainwashed clones jigging to jungle music and gawping at mindless TV trash which infests the West.

And Coloured Immigrants will be brought in to undercut Russian workers and keep wages down in hospitals, transport and so on. Already Gorbachev has imported 50,000 Vietnamese "guest workers" to Moscow.

The Russian people will find they have sold their national soul for soul music and squalor, and selfishness. Communism may have oppressed the body. Capitalism corrupts the mind. Russia and the other nations of Eastern Europe survived Communism as nations. Will they survive Capitalism, which threatens not just their national freedom but, through Coloured Immigration and the racemixing that follows it, their national existence?

QUEUING FOR JUNK: In Moscow Russians wait patiently for their Big Mac!

Poll Tax Paper Sale

SOMETIMES YOU just happen to be in the right place, with the right things, at the right time - and that's what happened when members of Eastbourne National Front held a papersale in the town on Saturday 28th April.

The sale, with copies of The FLAG whose headline demanded, A Fair Tax Not a Poll Tax took place on the day of an anti-Poll Tax march in the town.

Brisk sales of the paper were inevitable and a number of locals expressed interest in the NF's Poll Tax message.

The National Front have been holding papersales in Eastbourne for 11 years. In that time we have sold next to Tories, Labour, Militant, Socialist Workers and the Communists. 1990 see the NF still selling our papers - but where are the others?

ELEVEN YEARS ON THE STREETS OF EASTBOURNE: NF papersellers doing a brisk trade on Saturday 28th April

Administration Report
with Tina Wingfield

AFTER A brief respite at the beginning of April it has been all system go again as the public seem at last to be taking an interest in the National Front and what we have to say.

The Directorate meeting on April 29th at a central London hotel formulated some ambitious plans for the future and gave the go-ahead for some major purchases for the National Front.

60 seats at the next General Election, full campaigns to back them up, and a national TV election broadcast were the goals to aim for, with a National Front General Election manifesto to be published in November of this year.

The go-ahead was given for the purchase of a nearly new 15 seater minibus for literature runs, the Ulster trip and weekends of action. The minibus will be available for hire to all National Front branches.

After a slight delay a £1,900 computer to update the Administration Office has been ordered and will be 'in and functioning' by the end of the month.

Finally congratulations to new Vanguard editor Steve Brady and production manager Tom Acton on the latest issue of the magazine - 32 pages now, and with a full colour cover!

LOCAL COUNCIL ELECTIONS

JOHN LORD: Contesting Lye and Wollescote for the Nat. Front.

AS WE go to press for this issue of The FLAG we are aware of four National Front candidates standing in the May Council elections.

Dudley & Brierley Hill organiser, Andrew Nolan is standing in Halesowen, John Lord is standing in Lye, Nigel Howard is contesting South Morley, the first time ever the NF has contested this seat, and Norman Tomkinson is representing the Front in Sill Hill Ward.

100 FLAGS A DAY

Papersales were held in Hemel Hempstead and Dunstable during the morning while other NF members leafletted local housing estates in those towns.

The mornings activities were livened up in Hemel Hempstead when a gang of 20 Asians bought a copy of The FLAG and then burnt it. They were quickly moved on by Police.

In the afternoon the first branch meeting of Luton and District NF for four years took place with local organiser, Kevin Hanlon telling those present of his ambitious plans for leafletting and paperselling in the town.

Guest speaker was the hard-working North London organiser, Bob Nash, with the meeting wound up by Home Counties North Regional Organiser, John McAuley calling on Luton Branch and other branches in his area to start preparing the ground for the General Election.

Over 100 copies of The FLAG were sold in the day's activities with sales of other merchandise and the collection at the meeting totalling £132.55

BRADY IN BRIGHTON

Steve spoke on his recent visit to Russia and his talk was accompanied by a photographic display.

Around 30 local members attended the meeting where on the agenda was discussion of Brighton Branch's plans for the forthcoming General Election.

Newcastle

A CAMPAIGN of disinformation about the National Front appears to have been launched by the Newcastle Chronicle.

In a major feature at the beginning of April the paper claimed that the National Front had disbanded and were not active in Newcastle.

The paper was set straight by local member Mr. K. Wood who, writing in the paper, confirmed " . . the NF is starting to get bigger, and not just in the North-East. It consists of British people who are proud to be British and believe that Britain is for the British".

Newcastle organiser, John Harwood, is in no doubt that things are progressing in Tyne & Wear with a very high calibre of member attending the April branch meeting

Reporters & Photographers WANTED

The last three issues of The FLAG have sold out - not a single copy left. For the June issue of the paper the print-run is to be increased by a staggering 20% to meet new standing orders.

The paper each month is reaching an ever-increasing readership and to make an impact on the British political scene The FLAG must be of the highest quality in content and production.

If you would like to help us in our crusade then please send in your reports and photographs on any topics that you might think will be of interest to our readers. You won't get paid - you will just have the satisfaction of knowing you are playing your part in our Battle for Britain.

Hospital Waiting Lists Still Growing

THE NUMBER of patients waiting for hospital treatment rose 6% to 881,000 according to figures released for the third quarter of last year.

The longest waiting lists are in the West Midlands and the North West.

With the Tories dismantling the NHS and the best British doctors leaving to work in America the waiting lists look set to grow.

Sack 'em

HAVE YOU ever heard such rubbish!

130 South Yorkshire police officers are taking Chief Constable, Peter Wright tor court for 'post traumatic stress syndrome because of the Hillsborough disaster.

It's part of a Policeman's job to face up to stressful situations and if they can't do it then they should be sacked!

PETER WRIGHT: He should sack the Nancy Boys.

Laundering Drug Money

THE CITY of London is a major centre for the laundering of money made from the sale of drugs.

Drug money totalling £1,800 million is being funnelled through the city every year, giving the parasites and leeches who infest it a profit from the misery of others.

The National Front is pledged to close down the Stock Exchange and nationalise the banks. Such measures would stop the laundering of drug money at a stroke and stop British financial institutions making money out of misery.

The Crane is Back in Britain!

THE MOST remarkable event in British ornithology since the return of the osprey to the Scottish Highlands in 1950 has been the news that the crane has bred in Britain for the first time in 400 years.

The four foot high grey birds with their distinctive black and white neck strips and red crown are the most elegant of water birds.

They ceased breeding in Britain in 1600 after they were wiped out when used as prey by medieval falconers.

THE CRANE: Breeding again in Britain

HEROES OR VILLAINS: The media coverage has confused the issue.

Media Circus a Disgrace!

THE MEDIA were responsible for the length of time the prison siege lasted at Strangeways Prison in Manchester.

Seeing the prisoners climbing in the hydraulic bucket at the end of the 25 day media extravaganza with their arms raised aloft was more like the return of triumphant astronauts rather that the re-arrest of convicted prisoners.

The British taxpayer is the real victim of this fiasco. The tens of millions of pounds damage done to prisons throughout Britain will be paid for out of British workers's pay packets - and why must we pay - because the media made a meal of the riot all at our expense.

Never has there been such a nauseating show as commentators fawning over criminals, calling them by their christian names, describing their antics in full detail and giving them celebrity status. You could see the prisoners to a man listening intently to their radios smiling with glee as their latest actions, and news of further prison riots were reported. If they had had access to a television set they would never have come down.

The Govenor of Strangeways was right not to risk prison officers lives by storming the prison. What the Government should have done was to order a media blackout on the event until it was over. The siege then would have ended in days, not weeks, and there would have been no copycat riots,

Next time the TV detector van comes around asking for your licence fee tell them you've already paid it - financing the Strangeways siege repairs!

British Shame as Russians admit Guilt

THE RUSSIANS have finally admitted that they were responsible for the slaughter of 15,000 Polish officers in the Katyn Forest in Poland during the last war.

The admission of guilt highlights the disgraceful role of successive British Governments in failing to condemn the Russian atrocity prefering to blame it on the Germans.

The Government has possessed strong evidence since 1944 that it was the Russians not the Germans who were responsible for the slaughter. But they refused to release the evidence for fear of upsetting the Russians.

In 1976 the then Labour Government objected to a memorial being built in London by Polish widows in memory of those murdered because the Russian Embassy said such a memorial would be 'provocative'. When a memorial was built in Ealing, officers of the British armed services were threatened with Court Martial if they attended its unveiling.

KATYN: A Pole remembers

Minority Care Tories Aim

THE VICTORIA Hospital in Burnley, closed down and sold off because of cuts in the National Health Service has been re-opened as a private nursing home.

Home Secretary, David Waddington, turned up to open the exclusive home epitomising the Tory Government's policy of taking away services from the poor majority, to give special attention to the rich minority.

To the people of Burnley the closure of the hospital was a bitter blow, and to see it re-opened by four Asian doctors specialising in wealthy patients is causing a lot of resentment.

The National Front believes in a totally free Health Service for all British people. Exclusive Asian-run nursing homes have no place in the NF's health programme.

EHS: The Exclusive Health Service.

It Should Have Been British!

AN ITALIAN designed tram will be transforming the streets of Manchester next year when the city goes electric.

While the tram programme should be encouraged becuase it cuts down conjestion and pollution, isn't it a pity that the city planners couldn't have gone to a British firm to design the trams?

Another Tory Con Exposed!

THE GREENING of the Tory Party has been further exposed as a sham following the news that the British Government is refusing to support an Anglo-German scheme for recycling ozone-damaging chemicals from refrigerators.

The system which can recover almost all the chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) from a refrigerator cooling system was designed by a British Company from Stratford-upon-Avon.

It is a scandal that Britain isn't showing the way to other countries in the need to protect the ozone layer, and what an opportunity missed in promoting a British product in the bargain!

Battle to Save British Textile Jobs

A BRITISH shirt manufacturer from Manchester is leading the way in a British fightback in the textile industry.

Colin Deas, the managing director of The City Shirt Company of Cambrian Street, Ancoats is battling to win a corner of the British textile market for his 450 employees.

The colour co-ordinated shirts and ties are popular but they face a huge foreign import challenge in 1992.

COLIN DEAS: Fighting back for Britain!

Mr Deas is well aware of the problems the industry faces. "The clothing and textile industries employ today 250,000 people. A great many of those jobs will be lost in 1992 when cheap, politically-priced imports flood into Britain. How can you compete against shirts made by workers paid £12.00 a month?".

Launching the campaign to promote British goods, Mr Deas organised a fashion show in Central London.

Islamic Terror Strikes Again

MUSLIM TERRORISTS murdered at least twelve children and two adults in a sneak rocket attack on the Afghan capital, Kabul, on April 12th.

The Islamic fanatics missiled a bus stop, clearly a major military target, in their war against the Afghan Government of President Najibullah, which is trying to bring Afghanistan out of the Middle Ages.

The rockets that killed the children were supplied by the American and British Governments, normally the first to sound off about international terrorism.

Sniffing Out the Devil

APRIL SAW the conviction of 24 Christian fundamentalists in Papeete, Tahiti on charges of burning six people to death.

The members of a religious order called the 'Charismatic Christians' had gone to a village on the island of Faaite to 'sniff out the Devil'

I suppose it beats 'Songs of Praise'.

FOREIGN AID A WESTERN SICKNESS

EVERYONE HAS seen TV pictures of poor Indians sleeping rough on the streets of Calcutta, generally as a run-up to yet another appeal to Britons to shell out to some charity on behalf of these Indians.

What such TV appeals don't mention is the fact that Calcutta is also home to quite a number of very rich Indians, living in lavish mansions and driving gleaming foreign limousines. Because if it did, someone might well ask why these rich Indians can't pay for the activities of Mother Teresa and her fellow charity workers. And the answer might well harm race relations as well as charity donations here in Britain.

For the fact is that the idea of charity, of helping those less fortunate than yourself - unless they are your relations or members of your own religious caste - simply doesn't exist in Indian Hindu culture.

Hindus believe that pain and poverty and suffering is all part of the cycle of life: they are meant to be nobly endured, not relieved, so the poor and the sick may win themselves rebirth in a higher station in life - for example as one of the clique of hugely wealthy Marwari businessmen, originally from Rajasthan in Western India, who own most of Calcutta's industry.

GLORIFY

So rich Indians have no intention of supporting charities aimed at helping their own people. Their attitude is that if Westerners want to waste money on worthless beggars and the like - more fool them.

Rich Indians do set up charitable trusts. But where these are not simply tax dodges they only fund projects such as temples and sports events which glorify the name of the giver. To the gods if not to men: when their home province of Rajasthan was hit by a severe drought in 1988, Calcutta's Marwari millionaires did shell out lots of money to send home. Not to feed the hordes of starving children there, but to save the lives of sacred cows!

Not only does this selfish Indian attitude leave nearly all charities there to be funded and run by foreigners. It also leads to these White foreign charity workers to be treated with hostility and suspicion, rather than gratitude, by the locals.

When Mother Teresa set up her nun's hospital for the dying and the destitute in Calcutta 40 years ago, she was stoned in the streets by local Indians angry that she had attracted a load of dirty, smelly beggars to their area.

MOTHER TERESA: Indians think she works for the CIA and steals babies to sell them for five or six thousand dollars in Europe.

To this day the locals, who cannot fathom the idea of someone vowing her life to help those less fortunate than herself out of selfless compassion (an idea unknown to Indian culture), harbour the darkest suspicions of Mother Teresa. One told British reporter Jeremy Gavron that "Mother Teresa is very bad woman. She takes our small children to Europe and sells them for five or six thousand dollars to people who suck their blood for experiments." Another warned "This Mother is CIA. She is very rich. Big people in America send lots of money to ordinary Indians but she keeps it all herself." A third Indian muttered darkly that "In the night she comes and steals our Hindu babies and converts them into Catholics.

SUSPICIOUS

The Indian Government probably does not share this view of the Nobel-Prize-winning nun as a CIA-financed vampire, but it too is suspicious and hostile of charities. Foreign charity money has to be accounted for to the last rupee and organisations that take it are audited every six months. Charity workers are harrassed by the Police. For example British doctor Jack Prager, who has cared, free of charge, for Calcultta's sick for the past ten years, has been denied a work permit and hounded by the police and courts. His fellow White aid volunteers are regularly followed by the Indian secret police, who clearly cannot believe they are simply trying to help the poor and sick and so seek desperately to uncover what their game really is.

GREED

This hostile attitude by the authorities has effectively driven some charities, such as Oxfam and the Save the Children Fund, out of India.

But for some Indians suspicion of Western charities is overridden by greed. Last year, for example, a senior Indian politician had to resign after he was caught using charity money, raised to build an orphanage for poor children, to build a lavish mansion for himself.

In 1988, local Post Office staff were caught opening letters sent to Mother Teresa's Missionaries of Charity from all over the west, stealing the cheques enclosed, and getting them cashed in Hong Kong.

In another Indian charity rip-off, a rural health scheme was being paid for by a German and a Dutch agency, each unaware that the other was paying all the bills. When the Germans came to see "their" health project, its 25 employees were duly paraded beneath an appropriate sign. When the Dutch turned up, the sign was changed and the same 25 crooks, who were being paid twice over, turned out to wave for the camera!

BIG BUSINESS

Calcutta, thanks to Mother Teresa's tugging at White heartstrings, now boasts literally thousands of corrupt and bogus charities. As Father John Noronha, one of India's few native Catholic priests, put it "Poverty is now, after armaments, the biggest business in the city."

So next time you are tempted to reach into your pocket to help the poor Indians, remember they wouldn't need it if rich Indians helped their own people, and they may well not get it as Indian crooks may steal it first.

So why not give it to our own people - our poor, our elderly, our deprived or abused children - instead. They need help too. And no rich foreigners will send them money. Let the Indians look after their own - while we help our people in need. Charity begins at home!

Lapel Badge Starts Canada Pride Storm!

LAPEL BADGES showing a Sikh, an Oriental and a Negro surrounding a Canadian have been sold in their thousands on the streets of Calgary.

Canada has suffered massively from Third World immigration over the last decade but the popularity of the lapel badges shows that Canadian nationalism still lives on.

Predictably the authorities have had a heart attack over the episode. Calgary's Mayor Al Duerr admitted he and other civic leaders were totally against any show of ethnic pride on behalf of Canadians but had remained quiet over the sale of badges fearing that publicity would promote futher sales.

Now the Canadian Mayor has pledged to get them removed from the streets.

Out of Sight out of Mind

MEDIA COVERAGE FUELLED the Strangeways siege. The morale of the prisoners was raised every morning, as they came out on to the roof of the prison, by the crowds of reporters waiting below to cover their daily antics.

If they hadn't been able to get on to the roof they wouldn't have been seen and the ensuing media charade would have been a non-event.

A prison roof should be constructed at an angle which is unclimbable. They should be built out of galvanised iron firmly riveted on which is impossible to move without specialised equipment. For good measure the whole roof should be covered with a layer of razor wire.

Stop the prisoners getting on to the roof and you have won the first half of the battle in any prison riot.

Scrap the Agreement

THE FREEING OF IRA terrorist Owen Carron by the Irish Supreme Court is an affront to the British people.

It is just the latest act of hostility to Britain from the Government of Southern Ireland, an act that makes a complete nonsense of the Anglo-Irish Agreement.

Southern Ireland is a safe haven for IRA terrorists. Hardly a day goes by without an act by that country's Government or the IRA themselves that proves that fact.

That a British Government should have an official agreement with such people is an insult to the families of every soldier, policeman and civilian who have lost loved ones at the hands of the IRA.

A Matter for the Police

THAT MANCHESTER COUNCIL has given it's backing to a 'gay and lesbian' home for runaway children should be a matter for the police.

The age of consent for homosexuals is 18, yet Christopher Payne, the home's administrator has openly admitted that the establishment caters for children between the ages of 16 and 19, he also made it clear that no youngster of whatever age would be turned away.

12 'hand-picked' - whatever that means - homosexuals are in charge of looking after the youngsters, which is like putting a rapist in charge of dormitory duty at Roedean!

The Police should close down this den of vice now! It may save a confused youngster from a life of misery.

Tip of the Iceberg

AS LATE AS 1988 the British Government were still pushing the official line that the Germans were responsible for the murder of 15,000 officers at Katyn.

All those who had studied the case from the forensic scientists to the historians were in no doubt that the slaughter was carried out when the Russians occupied Poland.

Blaming the Germans for the massacre at Katyn was a propaganda lie of the Second World War designed to motivate hatred against the Germans.

Now the truth has come out, and the lie of German involvement laid bare for all to see. It's the start of a period of revision of history and must be welcomed by all those seek to differentiate between the truth and the propaganda of the last war.

BROMLEY RALLY

Photographs by David Perry

SUNDAY APRIL 22nd saw a National Front St George's Day Rally take place in Bromley, Kent.

Well over 100 members and supporters mainly from South London attended the rally at Bromley Civic Centre.

There was no opposition to the rally despite the booking being made in the name of the NF, and that fact being well advertised in the local papers. So much for Labour Party claims that NF meetings cause trouble!

NF South London Organiser, Dean Thomas, ably chaired the meeting which heard speeches from Ian Anderson, Steve Brady and John Hill.

A collection raised £361.45.

What a Lot

AS W.S. Gilbert observed a long time ago, a policeman's lot is not a happy one. Twas ever thus.

For there was a time when coppers were men of vast physique who complained bitterly about the corns on their gigantic plates of meat and the callouses on their hands occasioned by excessive use of the truncheon.

Nowadays they are a frailer and more sensitive breed, far more likely to be troubled by bunions on their backsides and scars on their psyche.

For I read that the members of the South Yorkshire Police who were on duty during the Hillsborough Stadium tragedy are to sue the South Yorkshire Police Authority for the mental stress they allege was caused by the Authority's negligence. They were traumatised, poor dears, and so mentally confused that they were no longer able to lie convincingly in court.

Time was when coppers positively wallowed in buckets of blood and, some allege, actually drank it. Unpleasantness was their business, an occupational hazard. Now it seems they need counselling if someone is beastly to them. They've probably already been well counselled by shyster lawyers on the best means of plundering the public purse.

I certainly hope that I'm never the victim of a gory road accident attended by the police. It is highly probable that the ambulance will be first used to cart the coppers off to their psychiatrist before they get around to me.

Inaction Replay

THE GREAT Debate at the Westminster Gasworks on the Government's plan to flood Britain with Chinese mercenaries from Hong Kong turned out to be the hollow charade that those of us who have witnessed this pseudo-democratic fakery a thousand times before knew it would be. The Great Tory Backbench Revolt, thretened a thousand times before, fizzled out as it has a thousand times before, just as we knew it would.

True, a few bold Tories, having ascertained that the Government was in no danger of defeat, voted against the Government, just to prove to the nerkish electorate that the Tories are really terribly nationalistic at heart and are "doing something behind the scenes" while a few slightly less bold Tories abstained in a marked manner.

Alas, the great majority of Tory M.P's are like Julian Critchley, the member for Aldershot, the home of the British Army. As befits a man at the heart of the nation's defences, Julian is very strong on patriotism and once declared that all patriotic Britons would be cheering for Frank Bruno. More recently, he has stated categorically that there is nothing wrong with Britain that a quarter of a million Chinese immigrants wouldn't put right.

Keith Raffan, M.P. for Delyn, spoke movingly of the great contribution the Chinese will make to national life, just as the West Indians and Ugandan Asians have done, a sentiment with which Madam Thatcher concurred.

So, with the patriots ranged against him, Norman Tebbit, newly-adopted son of Enoch and the leader of the Great Tory Backbench Revolt, knew he was batting on a sticky wicket. However, he manfully got on his bike and attempted to rally all the other Tory Right-wing Extremists. In an impassioned speech he declared, without fear or favour, that he opposed further large scale immigration on the grounds that it would hinder the racial integration that was so dear to his heart.

This outrageous display of nationalism provoked fat and fruity Edward Heath to leap - well, struggle - to his feet to kick the spokes out of Norman's back wheel. Tebbit's attitude was "racist", declared the Great European, as if that were the key word that settled the argument.

I suppose that realists might well enquire how, since Europeans are a race, it is possible for a Great European not to be a racialist, even one of such famed contortionist proclivities as Edward Heath.

If they got any kind of answer at all, it would not please them.

For race is the great unparliamentary unmentionable. To the vermin who infest the Westminster Gasworks, Europe and Britain are mere geographical locations like factory sites or rubbish dumps and Tebbit's ill-judged dash for popularity turned into a case of Norm versus Abnorm with the Abnorms winning by a wide margin, just as they always do; just as we knew they would.

As I watched, with mounting fury, the charade being acted out before a half-empty House - most M.P's, presumably, having more important things to do - I was struck not only by the fact that nobody mentioned that the existence of our nation and our race was under threat but that all present appeared to be breezily indifferent to what the real British, in the real world outside, really thought.

Any why wouldn't they be? Isn't it a fact that no matter how many betrayals and humiliations the Westminster vermin heap upon our nation, at the next election it is a foregone conclusion that the great British electorate will tamely vote for yet another dose of the same poison.

I used to worry about whether the British nation would surive.

Now I wonder whether people who knowingly, or in careless ignorance, vote for the likes of Paddy's poofters, or Julian Critchley, or Edward Heath, or Keith Raffan, or, for that matter, Norman Tebbit, deserve to survive.

The Ted Budden Column

Ted Budden was a founder member of the National Front. In his column he gives his view of the world. His comments and observations do not necessarily reflect National Front policy.

Choice

I SEE that the great Nelson Mandela was in Sweden recently; ostensibly to vist ailing Oliver Tambo, the ANC leader who'd been flown there by Lonrho executive jet for treatment. While in Sweden, I hope that Mandela took the opportunity of thanking the Swedish Government, who are a major provider of funds to Black terrorist organisations, and, perhaps, save on bank charges by picking up the next instalment personally. No wonder I've always preferred my swedes mashed.

But even one so consumed by self-admiration as the great Nelson must have been somewhat stunned by the suggestion that he was a real live candidate for this year's Nobel Peace Prize.

The Nobel Institute, which organises this annual festival of grotesquery, is funded by an endowment left by the late Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. Despite the fact that Alf was one of those merchants of death so eagerly calumnied by leftish verbalisers, the freaks and loons who have hijacked the Institute have no crisis of conscience in using his cash to gratify their own racial perversions.

I doubt if even Alf would have thought a terrorist old lag like Nelson to be a suitable candidate for a Peace Prize. A Most Valued Customer award, perhaps.

Meanwhile, driven to near frenzy by the relative proximity of the great man, Labour's poison peanut Neil Kinnock, who had previously had to rely on the long-distance telephone to hear Mandela's instructions on Labour's S.African stance, jetted over to Sweden to worship personally at the saintly terrorist's feet - rather like a Moslem at Mecca. I dare say that he used the visit to rehearse the exact style of the clenched fist salute favoured by Black terrorists which he was later to employ so expertly at the gigantic Wembley orgasm of ethno-masochism.

Meanwhile, back in Whitehall, instructions were received from Israel's European Gestapo headquarters, the Simon Weisenthal Institute, for the persecution of another seven aged and decrepit alleged Nazi war criminals living in Britain.

That they will be so persecuted, if they live long enough, is beyond doubt. Margaret is not merely positively swamped by trusted and valued Levantine advisers such as Lord Young, Lord Jacobovitz, and the grandly-named Sir Jeffrey Sterling, but her now distinctly marginal seat at Finchley is deep in the heart of already country. She certainly knows which side her matzos is buttered.

If Madam Thatcher does lose the next election she will not be the last woman Prime Minister, for Brent Schoolteacher and famed negromaniac Glenys Kinnock is waiting in the wings. True, poison peanut Neil will be fronting for his old red tomato but, look you, there's no doubt who wears the trousers in that house, boyo!

So, come the election, the great British public will have a positive embarrassment of riches from which to make their earth-shattering choice. They can either have Ikey's handmaiden or Sambo's poodle.

Iron Phoney

I SEE that now the "Falklands factor" is looking a bit tarnished and definitely waning as an electoral asset, Margaret Thatcher has been forced to dredge deep into history in a desperate attempt to revive the image of the "Iron Lady".

For, just as the gormless gaggle of stumblebums she is pleased to call her Ministers are tripping over their own feet at the slightest opportunity, she flew off to Turkey to attend the anniversary for the Gallipoli landing, one of the earliest and most catastrophic of Winston Churchill's long catalogue of military disasters.

True, the soldiers who were the victims of his calamitous misjudgement were heroes and deserved to be remembered. Just why she bothered to go this year though, when she had shown not the slightest interest before is puzzling. The fact that she chose the occasion to declare that there was a historical link between Gallipoli and the Falklands couldn't have been the reason, could it? Surely not!

In fact, I fear, the "Iron Lady's" martial image does not bear close examination. During the war when most girls of her age were serving in the forces, or working long hours in war factories or on farms, she was roughing it at Oxford University where the casualty rate was negligible.

So too with her self-proclaimed nationalism.

At the recent Dublin summit of EEC heads of government, Madam Thatcher bitterly resisted the Kohl-Mitterand plan for the political unification of Europe and denounced it as a threat to the position of the Royal Family and our independence. Just so, although I must confess that the prospect of losing the Royal Family is one that I regard as the best advertisement for the EEC that I've heard yet.

She also declared that the plan was a threat to "our national identity".

Well now; coming from a woman at whose insistence we are about to be flooded with Hong Kong Chinese, I think that's a little bit rich, don't you?

Her Iron may be phoney, but her sheer brass - that's absolutely genuine!

LETTERS

Send Them to the Falklands!

Good luck to the National Front in your campaign to stop 250,000 Chinese people coming into our small but great country.

We are short, as we all know, of hospital places, school places, houses, room on the roads and almost eveything else. The one thing we are not short of is Chinese chip shops, takeaways etc. The Tories gained power, and maintained it by promising to curb immigration. Now it looks like we're going to be swamped by orientals.

May I suggest that if the Hong Kong people insist on moving in large numbers from the threat from Communist China they go to the Falkland Islands. I bet they would keep the Argies at bay!

TED FRANCIS: Enid Blyton is clear morality.

We're Backing Blyton!

ENID BLYTON stories have finally made it to the television screens thanks to the efforts of actor Ted Francis.

Appalled by the violence of American rubbish such as 'The A Team' and Australian drivel such as 'Neighbours', Ted has spent the last three years promoting British programmes, spending £250,000 in bringing Enid Blyton's 'Castle of Adventure' to television.

"There's a clearly defined morality in Enid Blyton stories. Good overcomes evil and shows the world isn't for the bad guys". he says. Remarks that are bound to upset Labour Councils up and down the country who have been trying to get Enid Blyton books banned.

It's another law for us

A man living in Oldham in Lancashire recently wrote to his local paper protesting against the Poll Tax. He took the opportunity to remind the readers that the last time the Poll Tax was imposed on the British people the then Chancellor of the Exchequer was executed. He ended his letter with the words "Here's hoping". It was obviously a tongue-in-cheek remark expressive of the anger we all feel.

Nevertheless it culminated in him having a visit from two senior police officers who warned him to be more careful. Contrast this with the wild scenes at Bradford and Leicester a few months ago when scores of frenzied Muslims stormed through the streets of those cities burning books and screaming for the death of Salman Rushdie.

There was a deafening silence and complete paralysis on the part of those who should have vigorously clamped down on these lawless hooligans. Various people I have spoken to have expressed the view that they are driven to the conclusion that there is one law for THEM and another for US!

It would seem that only a National Front Government would be prepared to tackle these disgraceful injustices.

Well Done John Hill!

I was delighted to read that John Hill, the NF candidate in Mid-Staffordshire, turned up to the Council of Churches election meeting and took his rightful place with the other candidates; albeit for only a few minutes.

In Worthing in 1983 we had a similar Church election meeting with all candidates invited except Martin Wingfield of the National Front.

Martin was stopped from attending the meeting and had to stand outside the hall giving out leaflets with the NF's viewpoint.

Yes, it gave me great pleasure to see the Bishop of Lichfield squirming, for he and numerous other clerics are a disgrace. They have sacrificed the Church of England on the altar of multi-racialism. While our churches close, Mosques and Sikh Temples are thriving. Our church leaders should be launching campaign after campaign against these alien religions and fighting tooth and nail to protect our own.

Thought for the Month

"When the day of Pentecost came, they were all together in one place. Suddenly a sound like the blowing of a violent wind came from heaven and filled the whole house where they were sitting. They saw what seemed to be tongues of fire that separated and came to rest on each of them. All of them were filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other tongues as the Spirit enabled them."

Music Review with Bob Nash

Coffee Coloured Kids By the Score!

(For those of you who remember Blue Mink)

EASTER MONDAY saw a massive pop concert at Wembley Stadium for convicted A.N.C. terrorist Nelson Mandela in which a massed band of red traitors and lemming-like multi-racialists attempted to portray this black terrorist as a man of peace.

Earlier in the month, another group of Blacks were busy blaming the White man for everything. Black Rap band Public Enemy having recently gained notoriety for making a number of anti-Jewish remarks in several music papers; elaborated their views still further in a recent Melody Maker interview.

Not satisfied with simply advocating a black-is-beautiful black pride, militant approach, the group's singer Chuck D. announced that all races of men originated from black African ancestors or as he puts it, 'everyone evolves from that one place in Africa'.

Having a chip on his shoulder as many Blacks do about White civilization's level of culture and achievement he talks about the 'Afro-Centric Viewpoint', that only by the black man race-mixing and corrupting every other race into a half-caste parody of itself will there be peace on earth.

This is the theme of Public Enemy's latest album 'Fear Of A Black Planet'.

Well as we all know, Black Power belongs in Black Africa, which is where Chuck D. and all his minions should return to forthwith.

The National Front and other Nationalists throughout Europe and the White World will fight to ensure no such multi-racial disaster ever occurs.

SRA LEVER-ACTION SHOOT: Olympic Shot Sarah Cooper presents Adrian Dagger (West Sussex) with the 2nd prize & trophy in the .22 Block Shoot.

LOOKING AFTER SHOOTERS' RIGHTS

THE SHOOTERS' Rights Association Lever-Action Rifle Shoot, held jointly with the Pennine Shooting Sports Association, took place at Diggle Ranges near Oldham, Greater Manchester on Saturday 7th April 1990.

Competitors travelled to the competition from all over the North and Midlands, with some coming from as far afield as Sussex and Hampshire.

There were three competitions: .30/30 Rifle Comp shot at 200 yards and 100 yards on standard targets, a .357 Rifle Comp shot at 100 yards on steel plates and a .22 Rifle Comp shot at 20 yards on 5 x 2 inch wood blocks. This was a fast and furious starting with a loaded gun and clearing the table in the shortest possible time, whilst using the least number of rounds.

The prizes for the competitions were presented by Olympic Shot Sarah Cooper.

CAMPAIGNING

In 1987 the Shooters' Rights Association mounted a national campaign in defence of the shooting sports against major legislative changes when then Home Secretary, Douglas Hurd, announced wideranging amendments to the Firearms Act. The SRA fought the Government's proposals consistently through both Houses of Parliament, producing detailed briefing documents for the House of Commons and House of Lords, and organising briefing meetings prior to the debate.

The SRA believes the aftermath of the Firearms (Amendment Act) passing into law will be felt by those who use guns outside of Government service for the rest of the century. The Association continues to lobby for changes to the law, and is currently working on problems associated with the Home Office publication of Guidelines to the Police, a document the SRA believes contains major flaws which could lead police officers into error.

Unlike the majority of shooting associations the SRA does not expel members who fall foul of firearms regulations or their interpretation.

Shooters' Rights Association

THE SRA was founded in 1973 to fight the infamous Green Paper of that year curtailing the freedom of those involved in shooting sports. It was one of the organisations which helped form the British Shooting Sports Council.

The SRA is not anti-police, anti-establishment, or Party-political. It has had no previous (or current) connection with any political party.

The Association's main interest is the legal rights of individuals to possess firearms and shotguns in pursuit of their chosen sport. Every aspect of the Associations work is with that aim in mind, and with the clear objective of protecting the interests of the members regardless of the particular discipline they shoot in.

Racing Tips

Midnight Strike did oblige at 3-1 but that was all.

It's Flat Racing now and the settled weather means follow the horses who have already won! Selections for May are Kim Brassey's FACE NORTH, Henry Candy's MASTER LINE and Barry Hills's FURTHER FLIGHT.

Bit of a Cheek?

Did you know that over 50% of Britain's National Athletic Squad is West Indian.

Isn't it a bit of a cheek competing in competitions calling the team British?

END OF AN ERA: No more standing room at the Centre Court.

No Room for the Fans

TAKE A final look at Wimbledon the way it was; for by the end of May the whole Centre Court will have been changed.

Using the excuse of safety procedures the All England Club has demolished the standing area. From now on the show piece of British Lawn Tennis will be all-seater and at prices far beyond the pockets of ordinary tennis fans.

It's the end of an era. Just like Henley, Wimbledon now will become the preserve of the wealthy and Japanese business-men!

CHAMPIONS: Exeter NF.

EXETER BEAT LEEDS!

EXETER NATIONAL Front are the new champions of NF Branch Football League when they comprehensively beat Leeds National Front, the former League champions, 5-3 in front of a partisan West Country crowd.

Leeds striker Peter Taylor gave the Yorkshiremen an early lead but Exeter soon equalised and were 2-1 up at half time. Man of the Match Simon Robins netted three times in the second half and despite a late rally by Leeds, Exeter took the Championship.

Cricket Confusion or Racial Chaos

BOYO: Viv Richards representing Wales?

MULTI-RACIALISM caused chaos during England's Winter cricket tour of the West Indies!

First and foremost was the fact that England used three West Indians in their side. This brought torrents of abuse at every game from West Indian supporters and tension between Small, Malcolm and De Freitas and the West Indian cricket team which exploded into a pushing match on the pavilion steps between Small and West Indian players calling him a traitor!.

The issue was confused further when Viv Richards announced that he was proud the West Indian team was of African descent, upsetting the rapidly-growing Asian population in Trinidad the scene of Second Test.

A spokesman for the Asian community said the community as a whole would be supporting England.

So there you have it - West Indians playing for England against the West Indies and Asians living in the West Indies supporting England because of pro-African remarks made by the West Indian captain.

It's confusing isn't it? Still all becomes clear now Viv Richards is playing for Welsh county Glamorgan.

Never Give In

BARROW FOOTBALL Club have got to Wembley. On Saturday 14th April they held the favourites for the FA Trophy, Colne Dynamoes, to a 1-1 draw at Holker Street and reached the final after winning the first leg at Colne 1-0.

It is a dream come true for the club and for the people of the Cumbrian football outpost. In 1972 they were voted out of the Football League and since then have faced a long battle against extinction.

Throughout this season The FLAG has been following the progress of the Barrow F.C. It is a feather in the cap of our Sports Editor that the team he chose to follow out of the thousands he could have chosen should make it to Wembley.

Asked why he chose Barrow he replied "They are a bit like the NF. They faced extinction yet through the commitment of a few survived to carry on - it is a perfect example of why you must never give up".
